PROMISES STATEMENT
FROM PHILADELPHIA

Declares Draft Evader Was Preparing To Return Prior To Abduction Attempt.

New York, October 7.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, fugitive from justice in Germany, intends to return to this country and to serve his sentence for draft evasion, his mother, Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, declared today on her arrival on the Albert Ballin from Germany where she visited her son.

His return, she said, would have to await the conclusion of court proceedings following the alleged attempt recently to kidnap him when one of the men who tried to get him out of Germany was killed and another wounded by bullets fired by Bergdoll.

At the time of the attempted kidnaping, Mrs. Bergdoll declared, her son was preparing to return to the jurisdiction of the American courts. The attempt she characterized as unjust and unfair persecution.

Mrs. Bergdoll said she would give out a statement about her son's intentions when she returns to her home in Philadelphia.

SEVERE QUAKE IS SHOWN ON METERS

Georgetown University
Seismograph Registers
Heavy Tremors 5,000
Miles Distant.

Washington, October 7.—Earth tremors, indicating a severe earthquake approximately 5,000 miles from Washington, were recorded last night and early today at the Georgetown university seismological observatory.

Father Tondorf, director of the observatory, was unable from the record made to give even the approximate location of the disturbance, but indicated it was to the westward of Washington, somewhere in the Pacific.

The tremors continued for two hours, beginning at 10:53 p. m. and ending at 12:53 a. m. They reached their maximum intensity between 11:34 and 11:38 p. m.

SIX ARE KILLED IN MINE BLAST

Denver, Colo., October 7.—A gas explosion at noon today in the mine of the Mid-West Coal company at Palisades, Colo., killed Walter Scott, the manager, and five men. Only one body has been recovered, that of a man named McKee. The other dead are said to be Harvey Keys and three sons. The mine was set afire by the explosion and is still burning, according to reports received here.

Washington, October 7.—A meeting here October 24 of the executive board of the American Automobile association has been called by Thomas P. Henry, president of the association. Plans will be developed, he said, for urging congress to make an investigation of gasoline prices.

Alexander the Great Had a Good Idea!

The famed Macedonian conqueror is said to have directed his troops in battle by means of a large megaphone-shaped device.

Tradition tells us that this instrument would carry Alexander's voice as far as five miles. When he wanted something done he megaphoned his message to the troops without delay.

Many of his important victories, were gained by this direct and time-saving system of direct communication.

Today Alexander's plan has been perfected for everyone's use in the Constitution's classified section!

COART TO SERVE PRISON SENTENCE

Effort Will Be Made Today To Have Slayer of McNiece Assigned to Work in Talbot County.

All efforts to obtain a new trial for Major Lee H. Court, sentenced to life imprisonment for killing A. B. McNiece, superintendent of Talbot county schools, have been abandoned, it was announced here Sunday night when J. T. Goodroe, warden of the Talbot chain gang, arrived here to appear before the state prison commission Monday with a request that the convicted man be assigned to him to serve his term instead of being sent to the state farm at Milledgeville.

No immediate application for a pardon will be made by Major Court, it was stated, but Warden Goodroe had in his possession for presentation to the commission a signed statement from seven members of the jury trial to the effect that if a petition for the prisoner's "absolute pardon" were circulated now, "we would gladly sign it."

Want Court in Talbot. Eleven members of the jury trial, the warden said, had signed a petition asking that Major Court be assigned to the Talbot county chain gang. Similar petitions were signed by the entire board of county commissioners, county attorney and a large number of citizens in Talbot, he continued, and all will be presented to the prison commission.

Eleven members of the jury signed the following statement:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Talbot county, were members of the jury in the case of the state versus Major Lee H. Court charged with the murder of A. B. McNiece in October, 1922, which case was tried in Talbot county in March, 1922.

"We are thoroughly convinced that all the evidence in this case was adduced at the trial and we take pleasure in requesting your honorable body to assign the said Lee H. Court to Talbot county for the purpose of serving the sentence recently imposed by the court.

"Knowing him as we do we believe that you would make no mistake in this assignment and we believe that a majority of the citizens of Talbot county would heartily endorse Major Court being placed in Talbot county."

Ready to Ask Pardon. Seven jurors signed this statement:

"We, the undersigned citizens were members of the jury that acted in the trial of the case of Major Lee H. Court in March, 1922.

"We desire to state that we are a petition circulated for his absolute pardon today we would gladly sign it."

Major Court shot McNiece in October, 1922. He was tried and convicted of murder in March, 1922. His chief contention during the trial was that he shot McNiece in defense of his home. A motion for new trial immediately was filed with the state supreme court, which recently handed down an opinion affirming the verdict of the lower court.

Foul Play Feared In Disappearance Of Hapeville Man

TEUTS MUST PAY OR STAND GAFF,
SAYS POINCARE

Declares France Will Stand Until Germany
Comes Thru on Reparations.

BY CARL VICTOR LITTLE.

Paris, October 7.—In what was widely accepted as a reference to Lloyd George, Premier Poincare told a "former premier" Sunday that France is going to stand pat until paid.

"A former premier of the allies has undertaken weekly newspaper articles in a campaign against France," Poincare declared in a speech at Pierre-Fitte-Sur-Aire. "But there are many people in France—and I am one of them—who will not rest until Germany has effaced all traces of her passage through our territory, and her crimes."

Showing that he does not believe that cash payments will be forthcoming from Germany at any immediate date, Poincare referred to a new loan which will be floated for the devastated regions.

"I am confident that all good citizens will subscribe to the loan, he said. "It is necessary for a most pressing program."

In a later speech at Ligny-En-Barrois, the French premier referred to the Rhineland separatist movement, denouncing the German police for attacking the crowd of separatist demonstrators at Dusseldorf, which included women and children.

Defending the conduct of the French army of occupation toward the German nationalist propaganda, he pointed out that the Germans killed at Dusseldorf were slain by German police and not French soldiers.

He is ironical.

Poincare ironically discussed the German cabinet crisis, declaring that the Germans even attributed the crisis to France.

"They feel that we should have accepted vain words and contradictory measures instead of money," he said. "We should have believed that Germany opposed passive resistance when the persons engaged in passive resistance were being paid by Berlin. In reality it was when the inhabitants of the occupied area protested against passive resistance that Berlin yielded. Then she demanded concessions from France which it was impossible to consider."

"France will continue to demand sure guarantees of total reparations. France is willing to consider German proposals when it is certain that passive resistance has actually ceased and arrears of deliveries in kind are being paid."

"We hold the Ruhr industries as a guarantee. Germany is trying to prevent their exploitation, but she cannot, for if she did so she herself would be paralyzed."

Finishing touches were put on all the exhibits and displays Sunday and Sunday night and when the visitors begin going through the various buildings they will find nothing in an unfinished state.

Today is school day at the fair. Atlanta public schools will be closed so that the children will have an opportunity to see the south's greatest show. There has been some confusion about the tickets which were made out for the children. Each child heretofore has been given a slip at his school, signed by his teacher, showing that the child is a bona-fide student. This year through some mistakes the teachers did not sign the slips. General Manager Stripplin announced, however, that the slips will be honored on payment of 15 cents at the gates, whether signed by teachers or not.

Horse racing begins at one o'clock Monday afternoon. There will be fast trotting, pacing and running races. Between the races the free attractions, consisting of high class circus and vaudeville acts will be presented in front of the grandstand. The Royal Scotch Highland band will furnish music for these events. There will be five races. Two will be given over to the pacers, one to the trotters and two to the runners. In the afternoon and at night the midway will be in full operation.

2 FRESH GRAVES MARK LAST STAND

Bullet Torn Dining Room and New Mounds Are Reminders of Fierce Fight.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Eddyville, Ky., October 7.—Two graves in the cemetery of the Little Western Kentucky State penitentiary over which the earth was freshly heaped and the bullet-scarred mess hall in the center of the prison were mute and solemn reminders today of the last desperate stand of a trio of convict murderers who killed three guards, were besieged for eighty-one hours in the mess hall, and found dead from bullet wounds when a storming party entered the barricaded building late yesterday afternoon.

Members of the storming party entered the mess hall after it had been filled with ammunition fumes, prepared to meet three desperate gunmen, and found Monte Walters, Lawrence Griffith and Harry Ferland stiff in the rigor of death.

All Dead 36 Hours. All of the gunmen had been dead for at least thirty-six hours and in the cases of Griffith and Ferland, whose wounds indicated death by suicide, opinion was expressed that the end might have come forty-eight hours before the siege was raised.

Walters, believed to have been the last to die, was shot through the head and had been struck by a rifle grenade. Walters and Ferland were buried here. Griffith's body was held for relatives.

Prison routine, disrupted when the storming party entered the mess hall, resumed today.

Police Are Called Upon to Make Investigation of Mysterious Absence of William R. Polk.

FEAR OF ABDUCTION
EXPRESSED BY WIFE

Opinion Is Based Upon Fact That Polk Has Number of Personal Enemies, She Tells Reporter.

Mystified and alarmed over the prolonged absence of William R. Polk, owner and manager of the Hapeville Light company, his wife and several of his friends called upon the police Sunday to investigate the circumstances of his sudden disappearance. Mrs. Polk told a Constitution reporter that she felt certain that her husband had met with foul play or had been abducted. She stated that she based her suspicions on knowledge that her husband has a number of personal enemies.

Mr. Polk was last seen at the intersection of Broad and Alabama streets at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon when he alighted from a Hapeville trolley and is said to have told F. L. Dodgen, one of his business associates, that he was going home.

"My husband is a man of regular habits and I feel confident that he has met with foul play," Mrs. Polk said Sunday night. "He is 61 years of age, but does not look much over 50. When he left he wore a dark gray suit and a brown fedora hat. He weighs about 155 pounds and is five feet eight inches."

Mrs. Polk was asked why she suspected foul play and what had caused the enmity between certain persons and her husband. She refused to answer the question, replying that it was impossible to name the parties, or to state the reason and origin of the enmity.

"I can't name the parties to any one. That would be impossible," she said.

"Was the feeling of animosity between these unknown parties and your husband sufficient to cause you to suspect that they have carried him off?" she was asked.

"Yes, it was bad enough for that," she said.

"Have you named these parties to the police when you asked for investigation of your husband's disappearance?"

"No, I haven't told the police that. I just reported the case to the desk sergeant and he will inform all watches. I was told. The desk sergeant knows my husband personally," she said.

The report to the police was made by E. L. Dodgen. Mr. Dodgen also knew of personal enemies Mr. Polk had, but likewise refused to name them.

Mrs. Polk further stated that her husband never carried money on his person, but that the only valuable he had with him was a gold watch in which was engraved William R. Polk, 834 Market street, Wilmington, Delaware. Mr. Polk has been a resident of Atlanta for the past thirty years. Besides being owner of the Hapeville Light company he is a builder.

Accident Record Of 1922 Already Passed This Year

partment Shows 20 Dead, 451 Hurt.

Nine months of 1923 reveal more automobile accidents in the corporate limits of Atlanta than the whole of 1922, according to reports of the police department submitted by Chief Beavers to Mayor Sims, it was announced Sunday by the executive committee of the Atlanta Safety council, which secured the reports through official channels.

The statistics of automobile accidents reported by the police follow:

1922. Number of accidents..... 1,054
Number persons injured..... 261
Deaths..... 37

1923 (to October 1). Number of accidents..... 1,096
Number persons injured..... 451
Deaths..... 50

Fatalities Not Lessened. While the record of 20 deaths in nine months as opposed to 37 deaths in the previous year make it appear that the number of fatalities has lessened, the Safety council points out that this is a fallacy. The 37 deaths in 1922 are taken from the records of the health department, and show all those victims who died some time subsequent to the actual accident, in hospital or homes. The figures for 1923 include only those victims who died immediately.

ORCHESTRA PRAISED
BY LOVERS OF MUSIC

Magnificent Floral Decorations One Feature of Afternoon. Basket of Flowers Given Leide.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Atlanta's great symphony orchestra gave its first concert yesterday afternoon at the Howard theater.

The occasion marked one of the greatest strides ever taken by the city in its steady march forward to fulfill its destiny of greatness—greatness as yet barely guessed by the most optimistic of its people.

Before an audience which packed the house to its utmost capacity—with many hundreds turned away from the doors—that superb aggregation of over half a hundred musicians gave a program which will live forever, an historic event in the progress of the new south.

House Is Jammed. It is doubtful if a more brilliant and at the same time representative gathering of Atlantans ever came together than the audience which listened in breathless enjoyment to the outpouring of supreme music which swept through the auditorium for almost two hours Sunday. The roster of members of the new Atlanta Symphony association reads like a "Who's Who" of Atlanta's cultural and civic leaders. They were all there. Long before 3 o'clock—the performance began at 3:30—the reserved portions of the house were filled and a crowd overflowed the lobbies and sidewalk, waiting for the chance that some of the reserved seats might not be called for by ticket holders. With but few exceptions, however, this hope was vain, the number of seats in the reserved sections uncalled for at the end of the opening number—the time limit on reservations—being negligible.

The orchestra pit and stage of the Howard were magnificently decorated for the occasion, the Dahl Floral company donating this feature. Beautiful floral offerings were staked around the piano on the stage, dedicating tributes to the symphony association and the orchestra from numerous city organizations and individuals. Among the most beautiful were baskets of flowers from the Ad club, the Kiwanians, the Civilians, from Mrs. William Kiser, Colonel William Lawson Peel, W. D. Thompson and others. At the conclusion of the opening number of the program a gorgeous basket of flowers was handed to Conductor Enrico Leide, as an expression of appreciation for his unselfish presentation to him by the board of directors of the association.

Event Is Significant. The event, this first of a series of 12 great concerts to be given every Sunday afternoon this fall, was so significant and so important that it has been impossible, thus far, in a story about it all, to say very much about the actual program itself and the work of the orchestra. This does not mean, however, that there was any feature of the afternoon which outshone in success or importance the perfect artistry of the performance itself.

Scores of local lovers of music, men and women who have been present at all the important musical events of the North American continent in the past decade or two, enthusiastically praised this local orchestra as the equal of the best, as they left the theater Sunday afternoon. People who are familiar with the work of the greatest orchestras of the day as the average man is familiar with the latest popular song hit, told their companions that no musical organization in the country could have bettered it.

MUSCOGEE PASSES BILL FOR ELECTION OF COMMISSIONERS

Columbus, Ga., October 7.—The Neill county commission bill, to have the county commissioners of Muscogee county elected by the people instead of the grand jury and which has caused a hot local political fight, was carried by a majority of almost two to one, in the special election Saturday. The second heaviest vote in the history of the county was polled, according to newspapermen.

Priest Is Slain At Steps of Altar By Angry Woman

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Chicago, October 7.—The Rev. Basil Stetsuk, Greek Catholic priest, was shot and killed by Mrs. Emily Strutytsky, of Remy, Pa., as she knelt before him, ostensibly to make a confession, at the nine o'clock mass at St. Michael's Greek Catholic church here today.

Mrs. Strutytsky declared to the police that the Rev. Stetsuk had accused her husband, himself a Greek Catholic priest at Remy, of misappropriating church funds while he was minister to a Chicago congregation.

She declared the alleged charges were false and said she came to Chicago from Remy, nine days ago for the express purpose of slaying the priest to avenge what she believed the wrong to her husband. She went to church last Sunday, she said, to the opportunity to kill the priest did not present itself and she decided to wait until today.

Walks Down Aisle. About 300 worshippers sat in the pews of the church as Mrs. Strutytsky, heavily veiled, walked down the middle aisle, to the altar, and then to the confessional box, at the right. There, out of sight of the congregation, she knelt as though to offer confession, but instead drew a pistol from the folds of her dress and fired five shots at the priest, standing before her.

Two of the bullets passed through his head. Exclaiming, "Oh, God help me," the Rev. Stetsuk staggered to the main aisle and the steps of the church, where he collapsed. He died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

Members of the congregation were thrown into a panic, but two women seized Mrs. Strutytsky as she emerged from behind the altar, the pistol still held in her hand. Squads of police who were summoned were forced to fight their way to the altar where several members of the congregation were threatening the life of the woman slayer. At the police station where she was taken the woman without hesitation told her story.

Says Dea's Man Lied. Mrs. Strutytsky, 44 years old and the mother of two children, said her husband over a year ago obtained more than $100,000 by subscription to build a Greek Catholic church here, The Rev. Stetsuk, she said, posed as a friend of her husband, but advised the congregation not to attend the new church, and she declared, circulated reports that her husband had appropriated part of the subscription money to his own use.

These reports, she said, were false. She charged that the Rev. Stetsuk himself had appropriated some of the money.

The Rev. Stetsuk, 36 years old, according to the story told police by members of the congregation, was formerly secretary to Bishop Soter Ortynsky, Greek Catholic bishop in Philadelphia, who died in 1916. Mrs. Strutytsky charged that the Rev. Stetsuk had also accused the bishop of misappropriating church funds. After the latter's death the Rev. Stetsuk went to Youngstown, Ohio, where he had a charge and then came to Chicago where he succeeded the Walton and Opponents Store Up Energy for Use When Session Convenes Thursday.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Oklahoma City, Okla., October 7.—Oklahoma's political civil war was lulled today by a calm enveloping both gubernatorial and legislative headquarters on the eve of an extraordinary session of the state assembly called for next Thursday by Governor J. C. Walton.

Governor Walton apparently has entrenched himself in his residence, from which all executive affairs of the state have been conducted for more than a month. The governor said he did not care to see press representatives and that his regular Sunday conference with them had been cancelled.

Legislative headquarters were likewise quiet. W. D. McBee, who issued a call for a special session of the house several days before the executive's call, returned to the capitol today. Other public leaders were not at the headquarters in a downtown hotel.

"I'll be there," was McBee's only comment on the governor's call for a special legislative session, effective a week before the special session called by McBee as a result of Tuesday's election at which a constitutional amendment was adopted.

Governor Walton called for an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma on the basis of testimony given before various military courts since August 18 last.

Impeachment proceedings begun by the house and laid before the senate as a jury, may be legally instituted at any time, it is generally believed. The Walton call, therefore, apparently brings investigation of his own office one week nearer.

Rev. Strutytsky as priest at St. Nicholas church and also held mass at St. Nicholas church where he was slain. When he took over the pastorate, the police said he declared his predecessor had left a debt of $100,000.

Husband Incurant of Plan. She said that after her husband had been forced to abandon his pulpit and move to Rome, members of the congregation had written that her husband's successor had gotten the church into debt.

Her husband, she said, did not know she was coming to Chicago. She told him she was going to Rochester, N. Y., to visit a brother but first went to Pittsburgh, and sent her daughter, Mrs. Mary Mambal to Rome to be with the Rev. Strutytsky when he should hear what she said. Her son, Nicholas, she said is a student in the University at Prague. She said she had been a teacher in Ukraine before coming to America. Seventeen years ago, she said her brother, then 17 years old, killed Count Potocky of Poland and was tried and sentenced to be hanged but was finally reprieved by former Emperor Franz Josef of Austria and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. He escaped, came to the United States, and is now attending a Ukrainian college at Rochester, N. Y., she said.

Find Death Note. In Mrs. Strutytsky's room at a hotel the police found an unsigned note declaring that "he was deceiving people" and expressing the writer's intention to kill "him." The police are searching for a man of the name of Frastuch Body, who is reported to have remarked several days ago that "there will be some big things happening in the church soon."

The police also said they learned that the woman's husband several years ago had been secretary of a building and loan organization maintained by the church and had been accused of embezzling $20,000 from the man promised to restore the losses at the rate of $100 monthly, the police said, and year ago Mrs. Strutytsky came to Chicago to try to persuade the Rev. Strutytsky to release her husband from this obligation which he refused. The police said they believe the woman may be demoted.

Red Cross Work On Exhibit Today At Fair Grounds

The public will be given an opportunity this week to become better acquainted with different phases of Red Cross work as shown by the Atlanta chapter exhibit in the Liberal Arts building at the Southeastern fair.

The Red Cross booth is one of the most artistic at the fair and shows in miniature theater form the activities of the organization in service to ex-service disabled men, home hygiene and care for the sick, first aid in the home and school, and life saving.

Many individuals are uninformed as to the extensive Red Cross service incorporated in the peace time program. The local Red Cross chapter alone handles on an average of 900 cases a month.

Working in co-operation with Mrs. D. M. Robinson, Red Cross medical officer, the chapter is maintaining a United States hospital No. 48 on Peachtree road, Mrs. Sommerfield and her committee supply sickle dainties, cigarettes, automobile outings and other pleasures.

There are two classes of disabled men seeking help from the Atlanta chapter who benefit by donations connected with his army service. This type of man is often destitute and during the interval, long or short, that the government is compiling his claim, the Red Cross assists with food, housing and clothing. Red Cross assistance is terminated only when compensation checks begin to be paid.

The other type appealing is the one who is ill enough to be hospitalized but whose claim for compensation has not been recognized by the government and he must therefore wait until adjustment has been made. In the meantime he becomes completely helpless and is not dismissed from the hospital. He is sufficiently well to sit up, go into the reading room of the Red Cross hospital but, walk in the hospital grounds, but being without money he is in need of many articles of clothing which the government does not furnish. The needs of these men must be met until their disability is admitted as service connected by the government. The Red Cross steps in and through the loan closet supplies contributes coat, pants, underwear, and other articles. An urgent appeal is now before the Atlanta Red Cross to send clothing to the Red Cross at 240 Ivy street.

Junior Display. Mrs. Louis J. Elias, chairman of Atlanta Junior Red Cross, has charge of the junior display, assisted by Mrs. Kate Heard. Here one can see the many useful and artistic articles made by the juniors at the summer school supervised by Mrs. Elias' committee during June and July. Objects of keen interest to many who stop at the booth are the lovely poster books sent by foreign Junior Red Cross workers in the schools of Russia, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, France and many other countries where Junior Red Cross has been splendidly organized.

In addition to the books there are other articles made by foreign children. Sample Christmas boxes which are now being filled by the juniors of Atlanta schools are displayed. Each year Atlanta school children maintain their record of sending several thousand Christmas boxes to their less fortunate junior "cousins." The Atlanta Junior Red Cross children also donate to local charitable needs.

Completing the display is the work of the Red Cross nurse in home and school, including instruction in first aid, sanitation, nutrition and bedside nursing.

THOUSANDS GREET GREAT ORCHESTRA

presented the numbers given by this, Atlanta's own, symphony.

"The Metropolitan" couldn't have done it better," said one distinguished citizen, who has been an important figure in the annual grand opera season ever since they were inaugurated.

Opening with the effulgent music of the "Oberon" overture, the orchestra passed even the most exacting expectations and when this number was concluded, the outburst of applause told in unmistakable language, that the newest venture in Atlanta musical life had succeeded beyond peradventure. Then came the "Nut Cracker" Suite, of Tchaikowsky and the attentive audience had the opportunity to hear a different type of music, fantastic, dainty, exotic, playful, capricious.

Debussy' "Arabesques" fittingly closed the first half of the program, with their impressionistic imagery, their intricate traceries of sound.

Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" opened the second half of the program, with its luring melodies, played and replayed, recurring again and again as the orchestra moves steadily towards its inevitable climax. This number was probably one of the best appreciated of the entire program.

And then, as a perfect thrill to send the crowd home with enthusiastic satisfaction singing deep in their hearts, came the epic "Tannhauser" overture. This symphonic masterpiece, probably the greatest composition of a man who, to many, is the greatest composer who ever lived, lifts every auditor into a frenzy of excitement as its story of conflict steadily progresses towards the dramatic finale. Listening to the struggle of the two strains—the religious chorus against the barbarian, heathenish, luring songs of untrammelled revelry, the spirit which is within us all, consciously or unconsciously, joins the fight and, consciously or unconsciously, feels the supreme thrill of the triumph of good as the brasses blare forth the victory hymn of the pilgrims at the end.

All in all, there was nothing missing to make the event perfect on this, the opening concert. There was everything to cause the prime movers in the formation of this symphony association to congratulate themselves and there was every indication that the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra will take its place as one of the many reasons which make Atlanta unique among cities, and which keep her ever in the forefront of progress.

The only thing to be hoped is, that some of the hundreds who were unavoidably excluded by lack of room, may find their opportunity next Sunday, to share in the delightful discovery that their more fortunate neighbors made—the discovery that Atlanta has in its midst, a musical organization which can give musical treats equal to those enjoyed in any city on the continent.

Carl Behr, former member of the Boston Symphony orchestra, declared Sunday night that he was greatly impressed with the initial appearance of the Atlanta orchestra. Mr. Behr, who is a member of the Atlanta association, arrived in Atlanta Sunday morning from Asheville, N. C., to be present at the performance.

War Drum Throbs No Longer In Kaiser's Kindling Soul

BY FERDINAND JAHN.
Saarbrücken, Silesia, October 7.—Bavaria beats the war drum, and monarchist Germany answers. Panopied in the shining helmets, the gold and steel of the old regime, monarchist officers are rallying to the standard of revolt, training, marching, singing the old war songs, toasting, again, "The Day."

Northward the call goes forth—a German monarch on the German throne, death of the young republic, defiance of France. Against this background Stresemann struggles to stem the swelling tide.

It was with fresh pictures of a hungry, money-mad Berlin, torn by throes of cabinet crisis, that I came to Saarbrücken to ask Princess Hermine, wife of Wilhelm II, whether the war lord would answer the call, returning to a German throne or aiding his sons to restore the glory of the Hohenzollerns.

Two days ago Germany thrilled at the word that Crown Prince Wilhelm had left his island exile at Wieringen. Was it in answer to word from Munich? Was he plotting to return to Germany? Or was he, the kaiserin, leaving Holland, come to Saarbrücken? The presence of the woman who, if monarchist dreams come true, might be empress or empress-mother of Germany.

Finds Her Knitting. Across the homelike-silent room a motherly, plainly-dressed woman knitted. Her neat and simple dress was of thick stuff suited to the autumn. Her stockings were of cotton. The yarns in her firm, capable hands were destined to become a sweater—for the poor of the village.

Princess Hermine rose as I stepped across the room, and graciously offered her hand, in the European fashion, to be kissed.

Then resuming her knitting she chatted freely, grave when she talked of the sorrows of Germany, grave when she spoke of the future of the nation, but in her eyes, as she spoke of reported plots which aimed at the return of the Hohenzollerns.

Talking the quietly, the visions of a return of the world lord faded; plots, conspiracies, the mobilizations of "secret armies" and "secret fleets" seemed futile and far away. Through her kind eyes I saw the real kaiser.

Germany—and the world—can forget pictures of a plotting war lord, pomp, glory, blood and iron as in other days.

Plays No Politics. "No active politics played at my door," Princess Hermine answered when asked what relationship the kaiser had to the present crisis.

The greatest reserve is maintained there as to developments in Germany. It does not signify that we do not know the German people. It is to the contrary, and Hermine's voice carried sincere emotion—"We feel the German nation's sufferings as though they were our own."

"I view the German crisis with the deepest gloom. As you will recall, I told you when you visited the kaiser last spring, that the situation warranted utmost pessimism. Today I must say that my darkest fears already have been surpassed."

"Yet even today I can scarcely believe that the climax has been reached."

"The collapse of the mark continues. Apparently there is no hope of halting it. Unemployment and misery increase."

She had spoken as if talking to herself, seeing an inner vision of nation's agony. Then she paused and looked at me. "The unsolved question—what would the kaiser do. The answer was a shrug, the strangely vivid continental shrug of hopelessness. No solution could come from Doorn in the time of the people's sorrow. The hands of the former monarch were dead."

Speaks of Home Life. Turning to the family life of the Hohenzollerns, she revealed clearly that complete harmony existed between the kaiser and his children. She told how the crown princess and her youngest child had only left Saarbrücken a few days ago, and added:

"The crown prince is our cherished guest at Doorn each month."

Hermine declared that the father and son had both enjoyed these brief interludes in the monotony of exile, and said that there were no differences between them on political questions.

Talking of economic conditions in Germany, she pointed out that the greatest suffering had fallen on the middle classes, giving an example of the plight of the British-born philosopher, Houston Stewart Chamberlain, son-in-law of Richard Wagner, who lives in extreme poverty at Bayreuth.

The Johnny Jones shows are bigger and better than ever this year and will no doubt please the thousands who will visit them.

Live Stock Judging. The live stock judging begins Monday, and with the hundreds of entries the judges are going to have a hard time picking the winners.

The flower show opens at noon in the Liberal Arts building. Monday will be dahlia day. Cut flowers will be shown Wednesday and chrysanthemums on Friday. The greatest interest has been shown in the show this season and Mrs. W. P. Anderson, who is in charge believes that it will surpass any other show ever seen in Atlanta.

At night at 7:30 o'clock free attractions will entertain the visitors in front of the grandstand. May Wirth and company will give an equestrian comedy act. Reynolds and Donegan will present a dazzling "hall of wheels." The Santiago Trio are gymnastic equilibrists of the highest class. Nelson and Nelson will do a comedy stunt and acrobatic stunt. The International Seven will thrill with sensational tumbling and pyramiding. Aerial Huss sells headlines in their class have a great act on the wires. D'Lornal, the pole-balancing artist, is sure to please with his performance.

Day for Kiwanians. Every day this week will be a big day. Tuesday is Kiwanis day and will be featured by a parade through the streets of Atlanta to the fair grounds with all visiting Kiwanis clubs. The Al L. Fields minstrels and the band will be special guests of the club. The band will lead the parade. President Arthur Brooks, of the local Kiwanis club, has arranged a very attractive program for the luncheon at the park.

George D. Newton will stage another of his dazzling fireworks displays, depicting a Venetian carnival Monday night at 9 o'clock. This is one of the most beautiful scenes in the repertoire of the fireworks company.

Tuesday night one of the big features of the fair will be the chief attraction. The battle of Atlanta and the burning of Atlanta in 1864 will be reproduced in fireworks. The miniature city, showing Atlanta as it appeared in 1864 has been completed, and will be almost totally destroyed by the big bombs, shells and high explosive rockets.

Thousands of visitors are expected each day this week. Already the city is filled with visitors. The hotels are getting requests for reservations in every mail, and before the close of the fair it is believed that more than 200,000 visitors will have visited Atlanta and the fair.

Concerts Make Hit. The concert Sunday afternoon and night delighted thousands of people who heard both of the excellent programs rendered by the Royal Scotch Highlanders Band, conducted by Roy D. Smith.

Every member of this organization is an artist. The work of the soloists was specially noteworthy. Manuel Klingling, trombone soloist; Turner Nearey, cornet soloist; Frank Lockner, clarinetist; Jimmie Howard, xylophone soloist; Duncan McPherson, piper; Bobbie Boulier, tenor and Miss Hilton, soprano, did magnificent work and were heartily applauded.

Conductor Smith and his band made a very favorable impression on the people of Atlanta and the visitors to the fair grounds Sunday afternoon, and those who heard the music Sunday afternoon and night will, no doubt, be gratified to know that the Royal Scotch Highlanders will be at the Southeastern Fair until the close next Saturday night.

Visit the

Fordson Power Show

A contractor recently cut two weeks time and a thousand dollars cost from a single job with Fordsons.

A basement excavation 50 x 120 feet was to be done, the concrete, brick and rubbish to be hauled away. He figured it would take six weeks and cost $1800.

His attention was called to the Fordsons. He put three on the job, alternately plowing and removing earth with wheel scrapers. In 30 days the job was done at a cost of $800.

Your business may also be one that a Fordson can be adapted to. In order that you may see the many uses of the Fordson, working demonstrations are in action daily.

At the agricultural exhibit, many of the new improved farm tools developed for the use with the Fordson are shown.

There's something done every minute. A visit to this show will repay you with new ideas that you can apply to your own business.

At the Southeastern Fair, October 6-13.

ALABAMA BATTERY WINS N. G. HONORS

Washington, October 7.—The Alabama National guard battery, D. 141st field artillery, carried off all honors for drill attendance for the last fiscal year, reports to the militia bureau crediting the battery with a "yearly average attendance" of 187 per cent. The nearest competitor was battery D, 192d Connecticut field artillery, 135 per cent; company E, 14th New York infantry, coming third with 129 per cent.

Among the guard battalions, the second battalion at 102d Connecticut artillery was first with 131.4 per cent. The 192d also led among the regiments with 117 per cent. The 2d battalion, 1st New York artillery, was second in this group with 131.3 per cent and the 2d battalion, 101st Massachusetts field artillery, third, with 129 per cent. The 101st Massachusetts regiment was second in regimental attendance with 109 per cent, tying with the 105th New York infantry at the same figure. The 130th Kansas field artillery came next with 89.5 per cent.

Letters from the militia bureau congratulating commands and all other national guard units that averaged above 70 per cent attendance for the year, pointed out that the rating of drill attendance "is the only item affording reliable comparison between the organizations of the various states."

In all there were fifty companies, batteries or troops of the national guard which showed better than 50 per cent attendance, 40 of these being above 70 per cent. Forty-four battalions or squadrons were above 50 per cent, 37 of them being above 70 per cent, while there were 17 regiments with attendance 70 per cent for the year.

Death Ends Record
Career in Office
Of Judge Williams

Judge J. F. Williams, who died Wednesday night at Hamilton, probably enjoyed the unique distinction of holding longer one elective position than any other Georgian, and it is doubtful if many men in the United States even served longer than he did.

In April 1908 he was elected ordinary of Harris county and served continuously from the following September to the date of his death, more than 15 years.

It is said that not one decision rendered by him was ever reversed by an appellate court and that very few appeals were ever taken to his decisions.

During the Civil war he was a member of Company H, 31st Georgia, and became its captain. He was with General Lee throughout many of the Virginia campaigns and served for a long period under General Clement A. Evans. The Confederate veterans' camp at Hamilton bears his name.

Returning from the war he went to Hamilton, where he was born in 1840, and entered courageously into the tasks of reconstruction. A life-long democrat he was elected ordinary during those troublesome times and never had opposition for that office but twice. He knew personally most of the great men of Georgia, and was the friend of many of them, including Robert Toombs, Benjamin H. Hill and John B. Gordon.

In 1872 he was married to Miss Martha George, daughter of Rev. J. Hardin George, and after the war was an Episcopal minister of note and who served in the early days in Griffin, Culbert, Albany and other Georgia cities. Mrs. Williams survives him as do all of their children, except G. Rufin Williams, a veteran of the Spanish war, who died in 1916. The surviving children are Mrs. J. E. McRae and Mrs. Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Atlanta; Mrs. Horace Adams, of Savannah; and L. Williams, who served in the World war, of Dallas, Texas, and J. F. Williams, of Houston, Texas. In September 1922 Judge and Mrs. Williams celebrated their golden anniversary, which was attended by their children and grandchildren.

Judge Williams attended the University of Georgia and the University of North Carolina, having left the latter institution during the war to fight for the south. A few years ago his degree of A. B. was given him as a mark of honor for his service. The esteem in which he was held in Harris county was attested by the large attendance at the funeral in Saturday in Hamilton at the Baptist church of which he had long been a member.

Urge Methodists
To Pay Pledges
For Education

Educational "Clean Up Week" for Georgia Methodists was started Sunday under the leadership of Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, of the North Georgia Conference, and Dr. James A. Harmon, of the South Georgia Conference.

From October 7 to October 14, inclusive, has been announced as the period for the payment of past due amounts to the Christian Education movement. There are more than 35,000 subscribers in the two Georgia conferences who agreed to pay $1,500,000 in five years, the subscriptions beginning to fall due November 1, 1922, and annually thereafter. Some owe only one past-due pledge, while others owe two.

This "Clean Up Week" is aimed to clear these past-due amounts out of the way so that on November 1, 1923, the third annual payment may be made without embarrassment.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of north Georgia, and Bishop W. B. Murray, of south Georgia, have issued strong pleas to the subscribers to pay up at once all amounts due. These pleas have been reinforced by those of Dr. H. H. Sherman, of Nashville, Tenn., who has charge of the collection program for the whole church. Also by Drs. Harmon and Dempsey, of the two Georgia conferences.

Sunday services in Methodist churches throughout the state carried this plea to thousands of hearers. Atlanta, Macon, Savannah, Rome, Athens, Augusta, Columbus and other such centers are especially active and have a keen spirit of emulation to make a good record.

In Atlanta, Dr. Dempsey spoke Sunday to Inman Park, Park Street and St. Paul Sunday schools, while at Druid Hill the 11 o'clock service was devoted to Christian education. Rev. A. M. Pierce, the pastor, delivered a sermon on this topic, while the church collector, J. C. Burton, gave a "three-minute talk" on the importance of paying these pledges.

Throughout this week committees, pastors, and church collectors will work daily to clear away the deficit in both Georgia conferences.

WILLIAM JOHNSON
DIES AT RESIDENCE
SUNDAY MORNING

William Johnson, 62 years of age, a pioneer and well-known north Georgia citizen, died at his home in Smyrna, at 8 o'clock Sunday morning after a brief illness. He leaves a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Fred B. Dunlop; two brothers, Joseph Johnson, Ocala, and George Johnson, of Chicago, and three sisters, Mrs. J. H. Modill, Mrs. Charles Derby and Mrs. Matilda Kinnmouth, all of Chicago; one brother-in-law, Lee Miller, Atlanta.

Mr. Johnson had been identified with Crane & Co., wholesale dealers in steam, mill and plumbing supplies in Atlanta, for many years. He was a member of Nolms Lodge No. 323, F. & A. M., of Smyrna and prominent in business and civic circles of this section.

Funeral services will be held from the home at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon with interment in Smyrna cemetery. Rev. J. H. P. and Rev. V. L. Bray, of Marietta, will officiate. Nolms Lodge No. 323, F. & A. M., will have charge of the services. Barclay & Brandon in charge of arrangements.

JONES SHOWS ARRIVE
Clean, Wholesome Amusement
To Be Offered at Fair.

The Johnny J. Jones Exposition will open Monday morning at Lakewood park in conjunction with the Southeastern fair which got under way Saturday. The Jones shows will furnish a greater part of the amusement program during the fair, presenting one of the most complete and varied attractions of its kind ever offered in the south.

Officials announced that nothing but wholesome, amusement will be found in the large aggregation of shows, which, it was stated, does not embrace any gaudy concessions.

The programs are clean, wholesome, novel and mysterious, it was declared, and positively devoid of any suggestion of vulgarity. Many of the attractions provide both interesting entertainment as well as educational enlightenment. Other attractions are merely "gloom-dispelling" and form "an antidote and happy diversion from the anxieties of every day care," Edward R. Salter, publicity representative, declared.

The Jones shows arrived Sunday on a special train of cars and will be open for business Monday morning when the gates are thrown open for the third day of the fair.

$15,000 IS ASKED TO PAY OFF DEBT
OF NEGRO SCHOOL

A campaign for $15,000 to pay off outstanding indebtedness on the new building of Holmes institute will formally open with a mass meeting in the auditorium-armory on Tuesday night, October 23, according to announcement Sunday by President B. R. Holmes.

Lena Jackson, negro evangelist, will deliver the principal address, and leading negro ministers of the city will offer an attractive musical program. The outstanding feature of the musical program will be a number of plantation melodies by 60 former slaves, members of the Atlanta slave association. A chorus of 100 trained voices, representing the institute also will appear on the program.

At the mass meeting prominent white citizens will take part in stressing the needs of the Atlanta institute for negroes, and negro educators will make appeals to the leaders of the two races in Georgia to contribute the sum necessary to pay off the indebtedness. The amount now due is $15,000.

Holmes institute was founded ten years ago and occupies a prominent place in the education of southern negroes. Leading white citizens of the south have contributed to the school, and many Atlantans are expected to take an active part in the drive which begins October 23 to raise the necessary amount to pay off all indebtedness of the school.

B. R. Holmes, founder and president of the school, has issued an appeal to both races, setting out the fact that each year the school has shown decided increase in attendance and outlines the service his institution is giving to the negro race in the south.

A plea for the world to rally for the extermination of tuberculosis was recently broadcast from Eiffel tower by radio.

DON'T wait for your doctor to ask you, "How are your bowels?" The first rule of good health is to insure complete elimination. If you have constipated the accumulated waste matter putrefies and breeds disease. For prompt relief, take Pluto Water, America's Physic. It flushes the entire intestinal tract within 30 minutes to two hours. Harmless—does not gripe. No after unpleasantness. Every week a million people take Pluto Water as the best health insurance. Bottled at French Lick Springs, Indiana.

WOMAN'S TROTTING MEET WILL START TODAY

Entries From All Sections Of the Country Will Take Part in Brookhaven Tourney

Qualifying Rounds Will Start This Morning And Finals Will Be Played on Friday Afternoon—Many Entertainments.

By Mrs. Clarence Bradley.

The women's trotting golf tournament that is being staged by the Brookhaven Country club will open at 9 o'clock this morning. Entries have been received from all the southern states and a number from the north-east. This tournament will bring to Atlanta one of the classic fields of women golfers ever seen in Atlanta and the flight in entry in the first flight promises to be a hot one.

The brand of golf exhibited by a number of visitors seen playing over the Brookhaven course yesterday is of the championship brand and some close matches are sure to feature this tournament.

A number of state champions are entered in the tournament and the championship flight will consist of some very low cards. We are confident the course record for women will go to a new high today as everything points to ideal golfing weather and the fine condition of the greens and fairways will help the golfers in their fight for the low medal score. From the reputation of a number of the visitors the cards for the first flight will be well under the hundred mark.

Many Are Entered.

Nine states will be represented in this tournament: Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Ohio.

The program for the week is as follows: Monday morning, October 9, at 9 o'clock, qualifying rounds.

Tuesday morning, October 9, first round of match play, all flights.

Tuesday afternoon approaching and putting contests, also driving contests. The club will entertain all entrants in the tourney with a tea Tuesday afternoon and a theater party at the Howard Tuesday evening.

Wednesday will be the second day of match play and the first day of play in the consolation flights.

Thursday morning the semi-finals in all matches will be played. Thursday evening the club will entertain the visitors, their hostesses and the Brookhaven officials only at a barbecue at Durand's farm.

Friday morning, the finals in all flights will be played, except the championship flight, which is scheduled to tee off at 1:30 p. m., Friday.

The pairings and starting time in the qualifying rounds are as follows:

9:00—Mrs. John Armstrong and Mrs. L. H. Beck.
9:05—Mrs. W. L. Pierce and Miss Rosalie May.
9:10—Mrs. E. M. Kirby and Mrs. L. J. Robinson.

THE LAWS OF GOLF

—By—
INNIS BROWN

Q.—If a player hits his tee shot out of bounds, and after teeing up a second ball accidentally knocks it off the tee in addressing it, can he tee it again without penalty?

A.—Yes. On the tee this second ball is not in play until the player has played a stroke with it.

Q.—A and B are playing C and D. C has a handicap of 10 and B plays C's ball, and the mistake is not discovered until after D has played a stroke. C claims that he can play his ball from where it stops when B played it, without counting anything extra on his score. What is the rule in such a case?

Many of the South's Greatest Drivers and Horses Entered In Events on Today's Program

Track Is Expected To Be in Excellent Shape For Racing—Three Trotting Races and Two Running Races Slated for Today.

Now that the opening automobile racing program for the Southeastern Fair at Lakewood has been finished up in a very creditable way the next thing on tap is one of the greatest racing and trotting programs ever offered will be staged this afternoon.

Some of the best-known horses in the racing and trotting world are entered in the events this afternoon. Immediately after the auto racing was over late Saturday afternoon temporary preparations were started for the work on the track that will be completed today. Everything that makes up a good race track has been put into use and by this afternoon the track will be in the best possible condition.

In the races for this afternoon there is a purse of $1,200 offered and some keen competition is certain to result. The 2:13 pace and the 2:20 pace also are on the card and both have well filled entries. Clay Patch, of

Strength of Mortgages Feature of Bond Market

New York, October 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The activity and strength of railroad mortgages was the outstanding feature of last week's bond market. At the same time active United States government bonds were thrown on the market in fairly sized blocks at declining prices, selling being influenced largely by Washington dispatches that a bonus bill probably would be passed soon after congress convened.

The week on the whole was one of the best the investment market has experienced in some time, new increase from $17,557,000 the previous week. The new bonds were notably well received and bond traders and investment bankers express the opinion that new financing is easy of accomplishment provided the bonds are priced right with regard to yield.

While foreign bonds generally closed the week somewhat higher, trading in that group was comparatively dull and fluctuations irregular, a natural result of mixed opinions as to the outlook for early settlement of European problems.

The major trading in the rail group centered in the adjustment and income issues which were favorably influenced by the half year 7 per cent gold notes of the Standard Gas and Electric company at par.

There was a fair increase in the demand for general debentures.

Speculative industrial liens moved with the stock market. In general net changes in industrials were irregular, with steel, sugar and oil company liens displaying moderate strength. Copper company issues were somewhat lower.

The New York Trust company's index of security prices showed that the average price of 100 bonds on September 23 was 48 points below the average price of the same bonds on August 31, and 1.77 points under their average price on December 31, 1922.

Wednesday was the banner day of several weeks in point of amount of new bond offerings, the total for that day being in excess of $7,000,000. The largest single offering of the week was $1,340,000 five per cent one to 14 year, equipment trust certificates of the New York Central lines, priced to yield 5.45 per cent.

Other important offerings were: $3,000,000 thirty year 6 per cent mortgage bonds of the Public Service company of Colorado at 93 to yield 6.55 per cent; $4,000,000 one to 15 years 4.2 per cent Equipment Trust certificates of the Fruit Growers' Express company at prices to yield 5.30 to 5.70 per cent, and $2,500,000 one to 15 years 7 per cent gold notes of the Standard Gas and Electric company at par.

Stock Exchange Market In Spectacular Close

New York, October 7.—The most spectacular event of the financial markets last week was the sharp rally which occurred on the New York stock exchange Wednesday.

Apparently without any particular supporting factors in the news, the market steadily became quite active and firm. Gains of one to four points were accomplished on a turn-over well above the million share mark. In most quarters it was readily admitted that the motive power for the rally was supplied by urgent repurchasing by traders who had sold the market short. Traders concluded that the market was in a well-liquidated condition, that the short side had become overcrowded and that neither the technical position nor the business justified the amount of short selling which had been going on.

Perhaps the most significant development was the continued advance in grain prices. Cash corn in Chicago sold at the highest price in years and the principal futures gained several additional cents. December wheat set a new high for the crop and commanded at least ten cents more than the price of two months ago.

Cotton moved over a rather wide range, but its price was on the whole well maintained. Publication of the government ginning and crop reports Tuesday was at the occasion of a wild movement. The ginning report which was published an hour before the crop estimate, however, proved a disappointment and a big break took place as the cotton bought earlier was resold. Subsequent rallies and reactions left the December future practically unchanged.

Industrial news continued to disclose a somewhat spotty condition, with steel production still waxing. Pig iron prices remained weak and the market for steel products still stood in the buyers' favor.

Distribution of goods as measured by railroad traffic is, however, going on at an extraordinary high rate. Car loadings continued to exceed a million a week and railroad earnings are good. The class one roads earned in August net operating income of $98,831,000, which amounted to 4.94 per cent on the interstate commerce commission's fair valuation. This rate compares with 4.43 per cent in July and 2.64 per cent August of last year. Greater interest was shown, incidentally, in railroad issues listed on the stock exchange.

Owing to the passage of the October first demand, money rates eased appreciably. The belief prevails that the climax in the demand for funds is close at hand and that not much more is to be expected in the way of a stiffening in rates.

Among the foreign exchanges the features were the reaction in French francs after the gain which was recorded at the time of the German capitulation, and the recovery in sterling.

C. W. RUSSELL & SON

BUSY WORKERS IN TIN AND SHEET METAL

Building a splendid business on a foundation of "Service, Quality and Courtesy," has made the firm of C. W. Russell & Son, one of the best known concerns of its kind throughout this entire section.

C. W. Russell & Son are well-known tin and sheet metal workers, established at 19 Peters street, having been engaged in this line for a number of years in this city. The firm manufactures practically everything that can be made out of tin and sheet metal, giving special attention to roofing and guttering and all manner of repair work.

Many years ago the firm was established by C. W. Russell and about the time of the close of the war he was joined by his son who now takes an active hand in the business. The fact that the firm has been established so long in Atlanta, and that its work is of highest order, when its reputation is always assured, makes for this concern a large host of patrons throughout this city and over the state.

"Our business just now," said Mr. Russell "is very good indeed—in fact, exceptionally so. Not only in the work which has come to us through the large building development around Atlanta during the last several months, which has added considerably to our business, but in the manufacture of all manner of special jobs, such as ventilators, specially-built sinks and things of that kind which we can turn out to stock on our own designs—all these have tended to make our business unusually good. Looking ahead we can see a future bright with prospects of plenty of work, and basing all of our work on service, quality and courtesy we have every reason to feel optimistic over the future."

SOCIETY THROWS PREMIERE OF ATLANTA SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

New Date Is Marked
In History of Atlanta
For Lovers of Music

BY BESSIE SHAW STAFFORD.

A most brilliant and outstanding undertaking in things musical was the premiere concert given at the Howard theatre Sunday afternoon by the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra. This concert emphasized a fine musical tradition in Atlanta which began in 1910, when grand opera was first presented here. It also focused attention on the great musical talent in the city and on the hundreds of music lovers that reside within its borders. The day marked the launching of another marvelous achievement for the Gate City of the South and proved conclusively that the time is ripe for Atlanta to accept this orchestra, with its high aims and ideals, as a permanent organization.

The best composers have relied upon the Symphony Orchestra, mainly because of its breadth, to express their deepest emotions, and their most vivid imagination.

The scene was one of unrivaled beauty for lovely women, handsomely gowned, and exquisite music go hand in hand with Calliope, the muse of music. The large and cultured audience, which filled to overflowing the Howard theatre, manifested a spirit of pride and enjoyment of the wonderful selections divinely rendered by the orchestra, expressing appreciation which enthusiastically greeted Enrico Leide, conductor, and the members of the orchestra, this same outburst of applause following every entrancing number on the program.

During the intermission, golden-voiced canaries sang their sweetest notes, inspired by the strains of exquisite melody which floated from the instruments of the musicians.

Handsome Gowns.

Every detail of beauty was perfected to make the setting one of beauty and artistic conception, and to form a background for the launching of a real symphony orchestra. Large baskets filled with vari-colored fall flowers decorated the foyer.

Broad white ribbon streamers designated the places reserved for the charter members, whose contributions made possible this civic and cultural undertaking which places Atlanta at a higher standing with other cities throughout the country. The stage was elaborately decorated in stately palms and baskets and pedestals filled with flowers were placed on the stage, and flanked either side of the piano.

In the boxes, logs and orchestra chairs there were seated Atlantans prominent in social life and those who specialize in the joy of music.

Boxes Occupied.

Governor and Mrs. Clifford Walker and their guest, Miss Jameson; Mayor and Mrs. Sims, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. McCrary, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Atkinson and Clark Howell, Jr., occupied one box.

In the promenade box, left, were Dean and Mrs. Thomas Henry Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Nevin, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newell, Colonel William Lawson Peel, and Dr. Clarendon J. Owens, of Washington, D. C.

WOMAN SICK
TWO YEARS

Caused by Troubles Women Often Have—Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Medina, N. Y.—"I had a great deal of trouble since I was often sick and nervous, and this affected my nerves. For over two years I suffered this way, then I read in the Buffalo Times about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have taken it with very good results. I am very much better and feel justified in praising the Vegetable Compound to my friends and neighbors who suffer from anything of the kind."—Mrs. Wm. H. Adams, 311 Erin Road, Medina, N. Y.

Feels Like Girl Sixteen
Rochester, N. Y.—"After my twin girls were born I was all run-down. My neighbors thought I was going to die. I saw your advertisement in the paper and bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me and I kept on taking it. I only weighed ninety pounds when I began taking it, and I have gained in weight and feel like a girl of sixteen. I never can say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. NELLIE DORSEY, 16 Skuse Park, Rochester, N. Y.

Bowdon State Normal and Industrial College

President George W. Camp was absent Friday and Saturday on a business trip to Atlanta, Gainesville and Dahlonega. He visited the North Georgia Agricultural college Saturday morning and addressed the students at the chapel hour.

D. B. Whitaker accompanied R. B. Huff to Carrollton Monday. Ed Huff visited at home during last week-end.

A number of our students heard Rev. H. F. Roberts at the Baptist church last Thursday night in his lecture about his work in the Panama Canal Zone.

The executive committee of the Bowdon Players held a business session with Miss R. Louise Knudson, the director, last Wednesday evening. After the executive session, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Miss Pearl Shinn, who has been ill for some time, is again attending classes.

The Bowdon Players have elected officers of the organization as follows: Miss Madie Kirby, class of '24, president; Miss Mildred Ross, class of '24, first vice president; Miss Sara Burton, class of '25, second vice president; Miss Cleo Stone, class of '24, secretary; Pelham Bartlett, class of '24, business manager; Craton Hamill, class of '23, property manager.

Miss Willie Sherrill and Miss Wilma Payne attended last Friday's football game between Carrollton High and West Point at Carrollton.

Miss Mabel Copeland is absent from classes this week on account of illness. Miss Marjorie Hill and Miss Wilma Butler were in Carrollton Monday.

The sophomore class held a business session at Carrollton High last Tuesday. Miss Burena Rooks on last Tuesday enrolled in the sophomore college class.

Additional physical laboratory equipment is being installed under the direction of Prof. Ernest Dillard.

Senator William J. Harris is scheduled to address our students on next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. C. V. Weathers, pastor of the M. E. church, south, recently conducted our devotional exercises. Rev. M. F. Roberts, missionary of the Baptist church, stationed at Balboa Heights, Panama Canal Zone, conducted devotional exercises on last Wednesday morning and told of the canal, the Panama Canal zone and his interesting experiences as a citizen of the canal zone.

Prof. R. K. Pitts, our vice president, conducted chapel exercises on last Friday and Saturday in the absence of Dr. Camp. Mrs. Rumble, of Forsyth, was a recent visitor.

Four was a visitor to the library reading room last Wednesday morning. New tables and chairs for the bookkeeping class have been received in the classroom of the business department.

Interesting Notes
From Wesleyan.

The installation service of the Y. W. C. A., at which new members are received, was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the gymnasium.

Miss Roline Trimble, president of the organization, formed the vertex of a triangle of cabinet members, as she held a ring of friends, including Miss Mabel Davis, of Columbus.

The following have been elected as additional members of the athletic board: Grace Woodward, Vienna, major sports manager; Louise Collins, Wrens, minor sports manager; Mildred McCrory, Macon, tennis manager.

The W. C. T. U. committee of the Y. W. C. A., under the direction of Miss Ellen Wynn, chairman, presented at the Y. W. C. A. at 8 p.m. Tuesday evening, "The Georgia Female College—Its Origin, Plan and Prospects," written by Bishop George E. Pierce in February, 1840. Dr. Quillian has made it a nucleus of a museum, which will consist of interesting articles given to the college.

Among the visitors to the Wesleyan of Wesleyan in 1891, a visiting African at 22 years of work in South China, was an evangelist, missionary, Miss White led the chapel service Thursday.

Miss Callie Cook, teacher of ceramics, and the visitors to the Saturday for New York, where she will study ceramic and commercial art at Miss Mason's studio. The following students of Wesleyan are studying abroad to study also: Iola Bland, McRae, Ga.; Lois Hooper, Waynesville, Tenn.; Mildred Rice, Danbury, S. C.

The Compton club, which is composed of those girls who are not already members of state clubs, was organized October 1, and the officers for this semester are Mary Williams, Covington, Tenn., president; Elizabeth Malone, Jonesboro, Ark., vice president; Erna McCord, Roswell, N. C., secretary.

Among the visitors to the college have been Rev. N. H. Williams, Valdosta; Miss Grace Linton, Finesley; Mrs. F. H. H. Shaw, Tifton; Rev. T. M. Christian, Dawson; Mrs. F. M. Mangum, Hawkinsville; Mrs. M. E. McDonald, Vienna; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Lutzner, Atlanta; Mrs. M. T. Caughman, Montezuma; Mrs. D. G. Barnett, Arcadia, Fla.

The Young Woman's Christian association is a strong influence in the student life of Shorter college. Vespers services are held in the college chapel under the direction of its members each Sunday evening and the morning watch held every Sunday morning in the Y. W. C. A. hall is a beautiful and impressive service. A great deal of social service work in the poorer sections of the city is done through the social service department and on each Sunday morning groups of students go several miles to teach in the mission Sunday schools. Shorter students are teaching in every Sunday school in the city where the denomination is represented at Shorter.

Jane Hedden Hat Pattern

EDITORIAL.

For the new winter hats, Lyons velvet, satin soles and panne come in wonderful shades of Chinese red, China blue, Kings blue, French blue, Canard blue, jade, sand and African brown. These make good background for hand embroidery as well as the Chinese imported embroideries.

Hand embroideries are more elaborate and more popular than ever before. Here the school and home milliner has an advantage, as she has more time to spend on her hat than has the trade milliner. Beautiful hand work makes a more handsome hat than almost anything else.

Ostrich is coming again into favor. The beautiful long feathered straight quills form entire crowns on small hats or are made into crown bands to trim larger models.

Burnt peacock, burnt goose and vulture feathers are used on some of the many dressy tailored hats in black, and of brown. Small cloches of bright shades have entire coque feather crowns in matching colors blended from dark to lighter shades.

This junior model has all the simplicity and youthful sophistication of the new models.

Two sections of velvet and two of silk are stitched together to form brim, crown and lining.

Nothing can be more satisfactory in appearance or in comfort than this design.

Buttons outline the slashes and crown seam. A tiny bow at the side is the only trimming. Poppy red, Dreamland blue, black and French blue are attractive colors.

MATERIAL REQUIRED.
One yard 36-inch velvet, 1-2 yard 36-inch silk, 2 dozen buttons.

In this crown design, a fascinating pattern of plain long stitches gives beautiful embroidery effect. The home milliner gets credit for being a designer, and the student gets credit for doing the work. Any one can push a needle in and out of a crown of long stitches in black or brown velvet, navy ribbon on gray, duvetyne or light jade ribbon on a darker jade duvetyne give charming results. The model is very easy to make to give a charming frame for the face, but small enough to be comfortable.

One soft pressed crown, 1-2 yard lining, 3-4 yards 36-inch velvet, 1-2 yard 36-inch silk, 15 yards ribbon or chenille, 1-2 yard 36-inch material or 3-4 yard 36-inch material.

Distinguished Visitors Are Honor Guests at Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker entertained at an elegantly appointed dinner Sunday evening at the Georgian Terrace, the occasion complimenting two distinguished visitors, Dr. Clarence J. Owens, of Washington, D. C., and Senator Ralph Metcalf, of Tacoma, Wash., who traveled in the same party with Mr. and Mrs. Walker on a recent three months' tour of Europe, and were members of the international trade commission.

Dr. Owens is president of the Southern Commercial congress, director general of the American Rural Credit commission in 1913 and chairman of the International Trade commission for 1922-23. Senator Metcalf was a member of the American Rural Credit commission in 1913 and is executive secretary of the International Trade commission.

Dinner was served in one of the smaller dining rooms, and the table was overlaid with an exquisite cloth introducing rich designs of Madeira embroidery and motif of a flet lace. Adorning the center was a silver basket holding varicolored fall flowers, and the crystal candlesticks held green tapers. The place cards were handpainted in attractive figures of girls wearing little white aprons, which held green and white minis. Bonbons in these shades added to the color note of green and white, which was carried out in every exquisite detail.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Horne, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Newell, Mrs. Martha Goode Anderson, Mrs. J. L. Dennis and Colonel William L. Peel.

The prize for the prettiest doll carriage was presented to Constance Schilling. For the best poster made by school child, first prize to Miss Jasty—second prize to Evelyn Rogers.

For the best essay on The Care of Children, submitted by mothers, Mrs. J. MacFowler won the prize.

The winners of first prizes in their respective classes of the health examination were entered for the grand prize for the healthiest and prettiest baby, and the winner of that event was presented with a beautiful basket of white dahlias and calla lilies, given by Mrs. Henry Meiner, and six large photographs by J. Ed Murray.

The winner of this was Victor Lewis, the handsome son of Mrs. R. W. Lewis. He was enthroned in a bower of pink roses, and trailing vines, as king of all the babies.

The parade followed the judging. It was led by Susanne, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Howell, on her tricycle, in a floral costume as a "Brown-eyed Susan."

The prizes were delivered by Ralph W. Northcutt and they were as follows:

Prizes for one month to one year: Healthiest—Warren E. Benson, Jr., Richard Read, Minnie Lyle Rogers; prettiest—Emily Prichard.

Prizes for one year to two years: Healthiest—Mary Shaw, Sarah Barber, Dorine Darnell; prettiest—Mary Shaw.

Prizes for two to three years: Dorothy May Bon

THE GUMPS—DECLINED WITH THANKS

Treasure and Trouble Therewith

BY GERALDINE BANNER.

"Sacramento county," Christie exclaimed with sudden animation, "not far from the rules! There was a hold-up round there two or three weeks ago. It was a good one. Knapp and Garland—well, they shot Wells Fargo's messenger."

"It was while I was there," said Mark, "up toward the foothills above our ranch."

The young ladies were immensely interested. They wanted to hear all about it, and moved into the parlor to be settled and comfortable. Then he told them the story, forgetting his bashfulness under the spell of their attentive eyes.

"Where do they put the money?" said Aunt Ellen.

"That's what we'd like to know," Mrs. Fiddle. They have a cache somewhere, but nobody's been able to find it."

"Is the messenger dead?" asked Lorry.

"Oh, no—he's getting on all right. They didn't shoot to kill, just put him out of business for the time being."

For a space Mark and Lorry talked—it was about the ranch near the rules—rather dull as it came to Christie. The young man kept looking at Lorry's face, and she, before the gentle attention of her eyes, fearful of her own might say too much, thought it was just her sweetness that made her ask such questions, and everything about Mark interested her. Had he guessed it he would have been much surprised as she, had known that he thought her beautiful.

At an early hour Mark left. The place where he lived was not far, a lodging house on one of the city's streets, that sloped to the city's hollow. As he swung down the hills he thought of the hour of work he had promised himself to do, and he was gone. All he had done looked suddenly trivial, his rise from a farm hand a petty achievement, his beautiful rough uncutured boor. What right had he at the house of Lorry Oulton, breaking himself against unimportant able barriers? In the beginning he had only thought to enthrone her as an ideal, lovely, remote, unapproachable. But it had not been that way. He had ceased to be in contemplation—looked up, loved and longed.

He drew a deep breath and looked up at the stars, and he was alone. He seemed that evening, the lift of his passion swept him aloft on a wave of will and he murmured, "if she were there among you, I'd try and get her. Meantime he would not go to her house any more—at least not for a long time. There was a man in the house looking at him, and he was not the man to sit round in parlors looking and acting like a fool. He could only work, blaze the trail, make the clearing, raise the homestead, and when it was ready, go and tell her so."

Boys Mayer walked up Kearney street looking into florid windows. A cigarette depended from his lip, his open overcoat disclosed the glossy whiteness of a shirt and his head was crowned by a shining top hat. He was altogether a noticeable and distinguished figure. He had been to the Alhambra and was going again this evening, having already engaged the right-hand stage box. Now he was to send Pancha Lopez a third floral tribute and with it reveal his identity. The two previous ones had been anonymous, but tonight her curiosity—roused to a high pitch, he knew—was nothing of women—would be satisfied.

She had been a great surprise. Where he had expected to find an overblown, corny woman with a strident voice of the music hall and its banal vulgarities, he had seen a girl, young, sprightly, with a winning charm. He had heard enough singing to know that her voice, fresh and untrained, had promise, and that the spirited dash of her performance indicated no common gifts. Under any circumstances she would have interested him; how much more so now when he knew of her affiliation with a notorious outlaw! She was evidently a potent personality, lawless and daring. The Alhambra appealed to his style malign humor, she confidently secure, he completely informed.

After he had revealed himself as the admirer who wrote her letters to her, it did not take Mayer long to win the privilege of a personal call at her apartment that night, and during it he exerted his powers of impressing the gentler sex to the utmost.

After the door had closed on him, she stood sunk in thought, from which she emerged with a deep sigh. A slow, gradual smile curved her lips, she raised her head, looked about her, then hoving to the mirror, halted in front of it. She looked long, trying to see herself with his eyes, trying to know herself anew as pretty and bewitching as he had said she was.

Mayer walked home wondering. He was completely intrigued by her. Her performance in "The Zingara" had led him to expect a girl of more poise and finish, and yet with all her rawness she was far from naive. His own experience recognized her; both had lived in the world's equal byways; he could have talked to her in their language and she would have understood. But she was not of the women of such places, she had a clean, clear quality like a flame. During beyond doubt, wild and elusive, but untamed, she had touched the last. It would add zest to the duel which had just begun.

So distinguished a figure as Boys Mayer could not live long unnoticed in San Francisco. He had not been a month at the hotel before personal items about him appeared in the press. Even without the paragraphs he would not have been unheeded. Among the carefully dressed men, bustling along the streets in jostling haste, he loomed immaculately clad, dapper, splendidly idle amidst their vulgar activity. He had the air of unassuming beauty, unattainable by the American and therefore much prized. Ladies who entertained began to inquire about him, asked their maids to find out who he was, and if he was all right, make his acquaintance and "bring him to the house."

There were many paths of profit and pleasure in the city by the Golden Gate, and he explored any that offered entertainment—those that led to the box, green as grass under the blaze of electric lights, those that led to the poker game behind Solodan Lanna's pink-fronted restaurant, those that led to Pancha's up-stuffing room.

He sought this one often and yet for all his persuasive cunning he found out nothing about her, surprised no admissions. He was thrown back there, teased and wondering and went away again, puzzled and baffled.

One evening, a month after her first meeting with him, Pancha, going home, the night clerk, the Mr. Michaels was a relation from the country, and if he came when she was out, to let him into her room.

Since she had lived at the Vallejo hotel, he had been there five times, always after dark. She had told Cushman the place of "keeping him out."

took her hand and tried to draw it through his arm.

But she resisted, pulling away from him, almost pettishly, shrinking from his touch.

"No, no, let me alone. I like to walk by myself."

He drew back with a slight shrug more amused than repulsed by her attitude. "Always proud, always independent, always keeping your guard up. He cast a questioning side glance at her face, grave and pale by his shoulder.

"You wild thing, can no one tame you?"

"Why do you say I'm wild?"

"Because you are. How long have I known you? Since early in September, and I don't get any nearer. You still keep me guessing."

"About what?"

"About what?" He leaned down and smiled at her profile. "About your

She jerked her arm violently out of his grasp and walked forward at a swinging pace.

"What's the matter?" he said, at her heels. "Are you angry?"

"I shouldn't wonder," she threw over her shoulder. "Being nagged at for fun doesn't appeal to me."

"But what do you mean? I'm all at sea."

"Suddenly brought up short, and wheeled, faced him, her face lowering, her breath quick:

"I'm the one to say that, for I don't get you. Boys Mayer, I don't see what you're up to. You come and get, always so curious, always wanting to know, pussy-footing round with your questions and your compliments. I'd like to have it explained—I'd like to know what you hang round me for. Do you think I'm hiding something? Do you think I'm a criminal?"

"I think you're the most charming girl in the world," he protested.

She gave a smothered sound of rage and started off, faster than ever, down the street. This time he kept up with her, and rounding a corner, the two lamps at the foot of the Vallejo steps loomed up close at hand.

"Stop," he said. "Wait." He had no idea the hotel was so near, and surprised at the sight of it, his voice became suddenly imperious and he seized her arm with a dominating grip.

"You foolish one," he whispered. "Why, don't you see? I hang around because I can't help it. I come because I can't stay away—I want to know about you because I'm jealous of every man that ever looked at you."

With the last word he threw his arm about her and watched her close against him she suddenly relaxed.

When women lunch together it is not necessary for one person to pay the full check unless she has invited the others to be her guests. In that case, those who have accepted her invitation should not embarrass their hostess by offering to pay their share. When one person desires to pay the check she should inform the waitress of it as quietly as possible so that the check will be given to her.

TO THE HOLDERS OF
BIRMINGHAM RAILWAY, LIGHT & POWER COMPANY
REFUNDING AND EXTENSION MORTGAGE
6% GOLD BONDS

The Receivers of Birmingham Railway, Light & Power Company advise of the opinion that their cash resources between new and July 2, 1924, will not be sufficient to discharge all of the obligations which they will be called upon to discharge by that date. Among these obligations are $787,000 in principal amount of underlying bonds which mature July 2, 1924.

The Receivers have filed with the Court a petition in which they recommend that the interest which matures November 1, 1923, on the Refunding and Extension Mortgage 6% Gold Bonds be not paid.
The holders of said bonds should combine in order that their interests may be protected.

The undersigned have been constituted a committee for the holders of said bonds under an agreement dated September 24, 1923, a copy of which, together with a circular letter more fully dealing with the situation, may be obtained at the office of Central Union Trust Company of New York, the depository under said agreement, and at the offices of its agents mentioned below, or at the offices of the secretary or counsel of the Committee.

More than 45 % of the bonds outstanding under said mortgage have already been deposited under said agreement. Additional bonds may be deposited either with Central Union Trust Company of New York, 80 Broadway, New York City, or with its agents,
First National Bank of Birmingham, Alabama, Canal-Commercial Trust & Savings Bank, New Orleans, Louisiana, United States Trust Company, Louisville, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, which will issue certificates of deposit therefor.

The Committee has contracted to sell the deposited bonds on or before May 1, 1924, if the principal of the bonds is due by declaration or otherwise, at a price sufficient to yield to the depositors the principal of their bonds and six per cent. (6%) interest from May 1, 1923, to the date of payment, provided that not less than sixty per cent. (60%) of the bonds outstanding are deposited with the Committee.

The face amount of the coupons which mature November 1, 1923, will be paid to depositors, either by purchase of said coupons or as loans secured thereby, without interest.

No charges against depositors will be made for services of the members of the Committee unless and until a plan for the reorganization of the company or the sale of the bonds for a consideration other than as stated above is submitted to and adopted by the depositors. Upon such submission depositors may withdraw their bonds without cost for services of the members of the Committee, with the right, however, in the Committee to retain the bonds and pay such depositor cash which together with any cash theretofore paid such depositor with respect to such bonds and coupons will equal the principal thereof and interest thereon at the rate of six per cent.
(6%) per annum from May 1, 1923.

There is no need, in the opinion of the Committee, for bondholders to sell their bonds as a result of the filing of the petition. If a sufficient amount of bonds are deposited with the Committee, the bondholders should receive par and accrued interest for their bonds.

DEPOSITS MAY BE MADE ON OR BEFORE OCTO-BER 30, 1923. They cannot be made thereafter except with the consent of the Committee.

AMERICANS PLAN TO HELP FILIPINOS

Manila, October 7.—Governor General Leonard Wood, in an address before the first convention of the Philippine Sugar association here today, said he is trying to get better land investment laws passed for the development of the rubber and sugar industries. Americans, he said, are not trying to take land away from the Filipinos.

"The Philippine islands must have development to obtain the money necessary for schools, roads and other public works, which all Filipinos desire," he asserted.

"In spite of statements to the contrary, we are trying to develop the Filipino people, which labor as well as the arts and mechanics, and other things," Governor Wood said.

Atlanta Is Ready To Open Crusade On Fires Today

The city fire department will stage a parade through the streets of Atlanta, beginning at 11 o'clock this morning from the intersection of Baker and Peachtree streets and terminating in front of the city hall. The parade will officially open the program for fire prevention week in the city, which is being conducted under auspices of the chamber of commerce.

The line of march will be Peachtree and Whitehall to Mitchell, to Broad, to Marietta, and will come to a halt in front of the city hall where a medical for bravery will be publicly awarded Lieutenant W. P. Barker, of the fire department. Lieutenant Barker was chosen for this honor by Chief W. B. Cody, and the board of firemen. The medal will be presented by the chamber of commerce each year, to be presented to the fireman who performs the most distinguished act of bravery.

A. C. Newell, president of the chamber, will deliver a address prior to award of the medal. He will outline the purpose of fire prevention week.

In addition to the parade numerous other activities will mark the week's crusade against fire. Posters and placards with fire prevention slogans will be placed about the city. Home inspection blanks will be issued to pupils in the public schools.

The majority of the city's fire-fighting equipment will be seen in the parade together with a great number of the men.

New Orleans Cotton Market Records Substantial Slumps

New Orleans, October 7.—Highest prices of last week in the cotton market were made in the early trading when the active months were 95 to 103 points over the "ice" of the preceding week. Lowest levels were reached on the closing session when prices were 82 to 87 points under the close of the preceding week. On the close, prices showed net losses on the week of 53 to 61 points.

December, after reaching up to 28.78 cents a pound, traded off to 26.50 and closed at 27.20. In the spot department middling lost 50 points in the net results, closing at 28.00 cents a pound, which compared with 29.58 as the closing price this week a year ago.

Bureau day furnished the most excitement, prices rising to their highest on the returns of only 3.215.334 ginned to September 25, but breaking 1000 bales, an altogether larger

Shipping Board Value Placed at Large Figure

Washington, October 7.—The net worth of the United States Shipping board, as a going concern, was $292, 405,200.17 as of July 1, 1923, the Farley announced today in making public what he declared was the first complete balance sheet of the organization. The statement shows that all the board's accounts have been put on a business basis, the excessive war costs of tonnage having been eliminated and doubtful claims written off.

At its estimated present world market value, the government's fleet is valued at $220,000,000, the total recently set by a survey board, which inspected each individual ship.
As a further offset, however, a "reserve for fleet liquidation" amounting to $90,000,000 has been put aside by the board's actuaries.

Among assets totalling $399,919,000, the statements list the following items: Cash, $32,146,000; construction loan fund, $50,000,000; accounts receivable $122,884,000, (less doubtful debts $12,116,000); accounts receivable from managing agents "at recoverable value," $4,941,000; notes receivable $26,186,000, less offsets and uncollected notes aggregating $19,599,000; operating supplies $11,000,000; real estate and equipment $4,500,000; and completed voyage account $0,106,000.

The liabilities included: Accounts payable $6,948,000; accounts payable parade together with a great number of the men.

RED AND BLACK BEST IN HISTORY; ATLANTA EDITOR

Athens, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)
The first issue of The Red and Black, the University of Georgia weekly newspaper, made its appearance Saturday and it is reported that the paper, as issued by the new editorial staff is one of the most attractive ever seen on the university campus.

James C. Mumford, Jr., of Atlanta, is the editor-in-chief. Supporting him in the publication of the paper is a very capable staff composed of students from all over the state, the majority of them being those who are taking work in the Henry W.
Grady school of journalism at the university.

Other members of the staff of The Red and Black are W. G. Cooper, Jr., Carlton B. Colquhoun, Alfred L.
Davis, H. D. Breen, John H. Mc-Gehee, D. H. Breen, Tom Gray, H. D.
Shattuck, Elroy Dupuis, H. L. Sanford, H. C. Eberhardt, DeLoach Allen, H. D. Sanders, McNeer, S. Sanford, Alvon Hatcher.

Athens will observe
FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Athens, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)
Athens today joined the rest of the United States in observing "Fire Prevention Week" in decreasing the death toll of 15,000 persons and $520,000,000 annual property loss by fire in observing "Fire Prevention Week."

In order to encourage observance of this week and direct attention of young people to it, the Chamber of Commerce and Athens Fire Insurance exchange are each offering a prize of $5 to the high school student who writes the best essay on some phase of the program of fire prevention.

Mayor George C. Thomas urges all citizens to join in observance of the week and warns storekeepers downtown to rid their cellars of trash and rubbish that might cause fires.

Quitman Chamber Head Will Resign Post At Meeting Today

Quitman, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Secretary H. C. Barnes, for a number of years executive and cerical officer of Quitman Chamber of Commerce, will formally place his resignation before the board of directors today. He plans to leave Quitman Wednesday for his new home in Louisville, Ky. It is understood no successor has yet been selected for Mr. Barnes and it has not been announced whether or not the organization will continue to function, but it is generally believed it will continue.

Slow Rains Valuable.

Quitman, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—A slow twelve-hour rain throught the county is estimated to be worth thousands of dollars to the trucking interests which were suffering from the continued drought.
Indications are for continued rain.

SWIFT MOULTRE PLANT MAY COLSE

Quitman, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Information that Swift & Company's plant at Moultrie may be closed due to the small production of hogs in southwest Georgia is reported with anxiety here, reports showed.

Last year there was a decrease of 25 per cent in hog production in southwest Georgia and this year it is estimated there will be an additional 35 per cent decrease, making a total loss of 60 per cent within the past two years.
